

About Me

Hi, i am an anxiety disorder survivor. Due to my interest in the field of beauty, I now choose to engage in image consulting and life coaching. My journey fueled my passion to help others who are struggling with emotional stress and low self-esteem. As a coach, I focus on inner strength and self-confidence rather than just external appearance. I am committed to guiding others towards real self-discovery.

Initially, RABC operated as a mobile spa and beauty center, selling and supplying beauty products, health products, women's clothing and accessories, and providing facial consultation service. By giving a clear explanation about the importance of facial care and make-up to customers, RABC received several invitations to conduct beauty classes and workshops. Since 2022, I have been invited as a trainer in image and mental health at several government ministries and agencies. I am also a private consultant in image and life coaching.
