Being exposed to new people and learning from them is something that brings me great pleasure. Social activities and leadership, which aim to create an impact in society, are areas that I am truly passionate about. Technology, information, and business exploration are subjects that I love to delve into as a curious individual. Adaptability to new environments, creative thinking, and quick learning are qualities that I possess and enable me to communicate effectively. Additionally, my work is characterized by a systematic and accurate approach. Experience in event management, small business operations, and people management has been gained over time.
